

Subject:

Senior project engineer for photovoltaic projects

4 October 2019,
Ljubljana

Resalta is one of the leading independent companies in the field of energy services and the development of renewable energy in SE Europe. Our mission is to provide innovative, technologically advanced and reliable energy solutions that improve the energy efficiency, environmental footprint and business competitiveness of our clients. Due to the expansion of business, we invite a dynamic, proactive and experienced person to our Renewables team with the aim to develop strategic Photovoltaic (PV) projects.

Responsibilities

- Manages development activities of solar energy projects from feasibility to the start of operation
- Manages the zoning, permitting, land rights entitlements and compliance processes.
- Identifies and evaluates suitable sites, structure and negotiates commercial transactions with landowners
- Selects, manages, and directs third party consultants and development partners.
- Develops target scope of work and ensures projects are progressing on schedule and within budget.
- Ensures adherence to quality and environmental regulations.
- Manages and participates the analysis of incoming solar opportunities/projects.
- Supports financial and technical modelling of solar and solar plus energy storage projects.
- Reviews requests for proposals and corresponding written responses.
- Analyses data from customers to determine potential solar savings as necessary.

Requirements

- Proficiency in English
- Skilled in project management with the ability to identify and resolve potential project flaws and to prioritize critical path tasks.
- Knowledge of the solar marketplace, technology and industry.
- Reference in implementing / leading project manager for min 2MW Solar project.
- Experience or interest operating with high energy and flexibility in a fast paced and dynamic environment.

- Excellent problem-solving ability.
- Strong analytical skills.
- Proficiency in MS Excel, Word, PowerPoint.
- Drivers licence and flexibility to travel across Resalta Group countries of operation.

Your opportunity

- Your role will be important in the development strategic PV projects.
- Your home office will be in Ljubljana, but you will work on projects regionally.
- You will become part of an experienced and dynamic team that strives to achieve excellent professional and business results.
- You will have the opportunity for personal and professional growth, independent work and have the opportunity to realize your potential.